Since 1988 I have been playing the piano. My musical knowledge is very small, but I love to play. My first musical instrument was a piano, my favorite music is classical music. In my days I had some songs, which were only performed by pianos. But a while ago I decided to get into electric keyboards. Since then I have collected a large library of music. But I had my problems, so I set out to write my own music program. So after

What's New in the PianoTrainer?

PianoTrainer is a simple, easy to use application designed to help you learn tunes on a piano. Basically you select the MIDI, press play and start your study. The MIDI pattern is mapped to the standard piano keyboard so it is easy to play with fingers. You can play with both hands simultaneously and/or you can choose which hand will be played by default. During the process the result is displayed as an audio signal and you can always stop it or see the note values on the piano keyboard. An easy navigation is available to go through the patterns as you wish. As you go through the patterns you will learn all the major chords of the chord chart and their inversions. Requirements: PianoTrainer is a command line program and requires GNU gettext, libtool, autoconf, automake, libxml2, libxpat and XCode. PianoTrainer also requires MIDI files to work properly. MIDI files are usually available from online music stores or even purchased on CD. Any MIDI files you want to play in PianoTrainer are located in the PianoTrainer folder.
