Danville, California -- Free gas for everyone Danville, California -- Free gas for everyone March 11, 2011 -- Danville is offering free gas at gas stations in the East Bay area. The City Council voted March 1 to allow the city to offer free gas at all the gas stations in the city. The vote comes after a unanimous decision by the City Council. An estimated 100-150 drivers per day participate in the program. It is operated by Citizens for Responsibility and Ethics in Washington (CREW), who says that the program is an effort to reduce crime and increase residents' quality of life. Although not as effective as conventional policing, Citizens for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (CETA) has also offered free gas to drivers as a crime-reducing measure in other cities, including Chicago, Los Angeles, and Seattle. Under the program, participants do not have to pay for gas and will be able to stop at any of the participating stations in Danville at anytime, and no one is subject to police scrutiny or harassment while participating.
