. 30 June, 2020 ; Internet Email Tools For .Q: Accessing data in a stored procedure in SQL Server I have a table in SQL Server that looks like this. If there is a null value, I want to just skip the record and carry on with the next. Value Description ----- Hello World I know it's probably a very simple solution, but I've been stuck on this for the past week. Any help is appreciated. Thanks! A: From your description you could use a SELECT statement instead: SELECT NULL as Value, " as Description UNION ALL SELECT 'Hello World' The UNION ALL selects both rows from the query, and the result is NULL for both Value and Description. I'd also recommend performing this operation using CTEs to ease the maintenance and readability of the code. WITH cte (Value, Description) AS ( SELECT NULL, " UNION ALL SELECT 'Hello World' ) SELECT * FROM cte There is a growing interest in the use of augmented and virtual reality for non-robotics market. Non-robotics domain includes e-learning, multimedia content, mixed reality etc. In that respect, a suitable reference technology is the virtual reality which, for example, makes it possible to create virtual environments, inside which one can move freely. In such virtual reality, it is possible to represent three-dimensional (3D) objects in 2D visual data. In 2D visual data, only two dimensional information (i.e. an image) is provided. This 2D information (i.e. an image) is the result of the combination of the depth of field and the visual angle on the 2D camera. The depth of field is the envelope of distances at which the 2D image will appear as sharp. The visual angle is the angle formed by the line of sight and the optical axis of the 2D camera. The image produced by the 2D camera is a 2D image, and only two parameters can be determined from this image: the depth of field determines the sharpness of the image; the visual angle determines the part of the image appearing to the eye from the line of sight; these two parameters are also called Cartesian 570a42141b
