How to select all cells in a tableview with UISegmentedControl? I have a view with a UISegmentedControl that switches a tableview with a UITableViewCell subclass, and I want to get the selected cell (the one not showing the segmented control) to display "Off" when the "On" segment is selected. I tried setting the cell's indexPath.row = 2 and returning (indexPath.row == 0) but the array keeps returning zero. Here is the code I have for the segmented control: - (IBAction)segmentedControlPressed:(id)sender { NSIndexPath *indexPath = [self.tableView indexPathForSelectedRow]; NSLog(@"pressed"); if (self.segmentedControl.selectedSegmentIndex == 0) { // return On; } else if (self.segmentedControl.selectedSegmentIndex == 1) { // return Off; } // more code. I apologize for the poor formatting, hope the code is sufficient. A: To have access to the selected index path in the tableview, you need to subclass your segmented control like this: @interface MySegmentedControl : UISegmentedControl @end @implementation MySegmentedControl - (void)setSelectedSegmentIndex:(NSInteger)selectedSegmentIndex { NSLog(@"%d", selectedSegmentIndex); } @end This way, you can access the selected index path in the tableview by using NSIndexPath *
