The present invention relates to a semiconductor memory and a method of fabricating the same, and more particularly, to a technique which is effectively applicable to a semiconductor device having a conductive film formed by a sputtering method. In the past, various techniques are disclosed as techniques in which a metal wiring is formed by a sputtering method or a CVD method. For example, there is a metal wiring forming technique described in Unexamined Japanese Patent Publication No. 11-105652.Q: For (from the top of a tree to a leaf) shortest path in graph without duplicate edges using Matlab I have a graph with $N \times N$ nodes. I can also identify the leaf nodes in my graph. The edge data-structure is like this: $E(i,j)=A[i][j]$. i = adjacency matrix (where the i th row is connected to the i th row). j = adjacency matrix (where the j th column is connected to the j th column). I know that a tree graph is one-way connected, and directed. Each graph has a root. I want to find the path from the root to a leaf. I have an array of $N \times N$ length, where each cell is the weight (cost) of the edge, I will enter (or choose) my cost array as a parameter and get the shortest path in the matrix. The main problem is that all the paths from a root to leaves must be unique. The solutions that I came up with all repeat some edges. For example: $A(1,1)$. $A(1,2)$. $A(1,3)$. $A(1,4) + A(2,1)$. $A(2,2) + A(2,3)$. $A(2,4)$. $A(3,1) + A(3,2)$. $A(3,3)$ $A(3,4)$. The graph can be very large, but it is always consistent, i.e
