Motion Capturing the Movement of Play FIFA 18 introduced a new hyper-realistic gameplay system called Focus Pivot™. For FIFA 20, we have introduced a feature called Motion Capture. This system captures the movement of the 22 players on the pitch, allowing us to react faster to the on-the-pitch movement of the players and adapt the gameplay to the new scenarios. We will capture movements from a number of high intensity football matches, including representative matches from the World Cup 2018 qualification and World Cup 2019 qualification, as well as top club matches, to capture the movement of the 22 players. We will capture every single moment of high intensity football, including stoppage time, to capture the moment when the final whistle blows at the end of the match. We will also use the data from these matches to learn more about how this new feature works, improving it for FIFA 20, with our further aim to improve this in FIFA 21. We will learn about player movements and how they change over the course of the match, and what happens if the movement of a player is blocked by another player. By using a prototype version of the system in FIFA 19 (Mode 6) and learning about this new feature, we will then be able to make sure it works and adapts in FIFA 20. Key Features: HyperMotion™, Player and Referee Attacking Mechanics, Introducing Shots and Tactical Objectives

“HyperMotion” technology drives a new gameplay experience in FIFA 22! Starting from FIFA 22, we will introduce a technology called “HyperMotion” to capture the movement of the players in real time. We will learn about the movement of the players on the pitch, how we can use this data to make the gameplay more accurate and more realistic. With this technology, we will show a real-time view of the 22 players on the field, moving on the pitch in real time in the form of a hyper-realistic match. We will also be able to show a 360° view of the crowd, with crowd animations reflecting player movement and the soundtrack synced with the movement of the players. The crowd and stadium will react to every single shot, tackle and header as they happen on the pitch, and you will be able to feel the emotion of each player. Unleash your skills with an improved formation system In the Ultimate Team mode, we have been improving the game-changing tools you
