SWEEPS SWEEPS (formerly known as SWIPE) is an extremely powerful image editing tool for cropping, sizing, adjusting borders, adding text, and other image-manipulation techniques. It supports layer-based image editing in which objects can be moved, modified, and configured using layers. It also has a mask feature that enables complex edits to be performed using pixels or groups of pixels. SWEEPS also has a wide range of drawing and shape tools that can be used to create a variety of shapes. * Photoshop CS5: The Complete Guide, by Steve Harris and Scott Kelby, has an excellent section on SWEEPS and a focus on using this powerful tool to create logos. The book is available from "www.elitephotoshopclasses.com". * Professional Photoshop CS6 Classroom Training, by Craig Mullins, Lee Lowndes, Rick Sammon, and Christopher Milford, can be purchased online at "www.photoshop.com/shop/inspiration/training/lessons". # THE ULTIMATE ONE-CLICK FIX You can use the One-Click Fix tool to create both Photoshop fixes and Lightroom fixes that work the same way, such as removing red-eye, repairing minor color-related problems, or fixing jagged or deformed edges. You create a _fix_ by selecting the tools you want to use and then clicking the required tool in the Toolbox. You then drag the tool on to the area that needs to be fixed, and the fix is created in the image on the fly. You then open the image in Photoshop or Lightroom and make your edits to it. To create a one-click fix in Photoshop, start by selecting the tools you want to use and then choose one of them from the Fix menu. Then select the area that needs fixing from the Option box, and click OK to create the fix. In Figure 5-29 you see the process for creating a one-click fix in Photoshop. Still Life In this tutorial, we are going to learn how to edit a still life using Adobe Photoshop Elements. Materials needed: Our artwork is completed. That's it. See how I made it? Now let's move ahead and create a better one. I still think that some work is missing, so let's begin! Step 1 First let's make the canvas a bit bigger. Resize it to 2500 x 2500 pixels (200% of the original canvas). Next, we'll create a new layer. Click the eye icon on top right to open the Layers panel. Click the New Layer icon (+) in the panel at the bottom to open the dialog box. Now let's select a solid color and fill it with gray. Click Color & Adjustments > Color > Fill > Gradient Overlay. Press Enter to apply the setting. Step 2 Make a new layer by clicking the eye icon on top right again and click the New Layer icon (+). On the new layer, paint a green gradient from the upper left to the right part of the canvas. Step 3 Next, let's make a new layer. Click the eye icon on top right again and click the New Layer icon (+). Select a Blue Gradient, Click Color & Adjustments > Color > Tint > Blue Tint Gradient, and then select "Gradient" from the drop-down menu. Press Enter to apply the setting. Step 4 Lastly, let's add a drop shadow. Click the eye icon on top right again and click the New Layer icon (+). Click the Blending Options icon next to the brush icon and select "Drop Shadow". Press Enter to apply the setting. Let's get back to the main layer and create a new layer using the same color. Click the eye icon on top right again and click the New Layer icon (+). You'll see the New Layer dialog box. Click the solid color on the left and press Delete. In the New Layer dialog box, press OK. Step 5 Let's apply a some minor modifications to the previous layer, such as the color of the leaves and some minor adjustments to the lighting. Click the eye icon on top right again and click the Adjustments icon. Select Lighting/Color, and then click the checkbox next to "Lighting & Shadows" under "Modify". 388ed7b0c7

Q: Deserializing into a list with methods that do not exist I am having difficulty deserializing a class that contains a list which contains objects of another class. The class that contains this list is in a different assembly. The original class had no similar list property in it, and when I added the List class to the other assembly I was not able to access it from the original assembly. I had to wrap it in another class: public class WrappedClass : List { private readonly T _value; public WrappedClass(T value) { _value = value; } public T Value { get { return _value; } } } Any help in solving this problem would be greatly appreciated. A: You can do something like [System.ComponentModel.DataAnnotations] public WrappedClass WrappedClass; using System; using System.ComponentModel; using System.Collections; using System.Collections.Generic; using System.Runtime.Serialization; using System.Runtime.Serialization.Formatters.Binary; using System.IO; class Program { static void Main(string[] args) { string fileName = @"C:\Users\jillabeau\Documents\file.bin"; Stream s = File.Open(fileName, FileMode.Open); WrappedClass wrapped = (WrappedClass) System.Runtime.Serialization.Formatters.Binary.BinaryFormatter.Deserialize(s); Console.WriteLine(wrapped.WrappedClass[0].MyProperty.ToString()); } } [System.Serializable] public class MyClass { public string myProperty { get; set; } } [System.Serializable] public class WrappedClass : List

Peptide ligands with anti- and pro-bacterial properties from a phage display library of antigens. A phage display random peptide library was screened by ELISA against three prototype serotypes of pneumococci. Two peptides (pneumococcal B and pBH25) were shown to bind specifically to the pneumococci. These peptides have been expressed in Escherichia coli as fusion proteins with glutathione S-transferase. Immunoprecipitation analysis showed that each peptide bound to a specific pneumococcal surface antigen (Spa). Competition experiments using antibodies against the two major surface antigens of Streptococcus pneumoniae indicated that the two peptides bound to different regions of the Spa adhesin. The peptide pBH25 inhibited the adherence of pneumococci, whereas the peptide pBH09 was shown to enhance the adherence of the organism to human epithelial cells. Local leaders say 'swatting' incidents are growing, led by the Shreveport area. In the Shreveport area alone, a grandmother was killed recently when she was swatted by her son-in-law while trying to help him. In Kansas, the Kansas Bureau of Investigation sent out a press release saying swatting was on the rise. In January, 60 calls were made in just one day. "We have received multiple threats regarding the incident in Shreveport and we are closely monitoring to see if and when it happens again," an FBI spokesperson said.Q: Pushing items from array inside object to new array I have an array that I am using to send a message to different devices using WebRTC, the push method works fine to just add the array to a new array. My question is how can I move all items from the array1 to array2 without having to mutate anything? function pushToArray2(array1, array2){ return array1.map( function(element, index) { return [element.id, array2]; }); } var array1 = [ { "id": "1" }, { "id": "2" },
