“As with FIFA 19, we are also working together with our key partners and independent researchers to develop EA Trajectory – a revolutionary new AI technology that uses complex play-style trajectories derived from a player’s positional data to create unique one-of-a-kind on-pitch behaviours.” Jason Lee, SVP of Mobile Game and Viveport Lead, said: “We are thrilled to partner with EA on this landmark project and bring together the innovation and creativity of the EA Trajectory team with the gaming experience and gameplay quality developed over the last eight years of FIFA.” “The FIFA Trajectory Challenge was a major driver in our decision to partner with EA, as it led directly to EA Trajectory,” added Dominik Markl, Chief Digital Officer for Electronic Arts. “The partnership between EA Trajectory and EA FIFA represents a powerful combination of innovative technology and gaming expertise.” EA Trajectory is a key pillar of the FIFA 22 development process and adds layers of gameplay elements that work together to create the depth and dynamics of a high-intensity real football match. This game mode simulates all the key components of a football match – from the positions on the pitch to the ball control, the formation, the play of the match and the whole match experience. These components build the foundation of FIFA 22 gameplay and together creates the psychological elements of a real football match. This is complemented by a comprehensive suite of gameplay-enhancing gameplay AI data, that includes: Physics: Physical feedback about the match that enables players to better control their performance in all situations

Play-style: Ability to control match-winning moments through pitch manipulation, set pieces and strikers
Tactics: Interception and one-on-one defensive challenges
Team-play: Interactions with teammates and opponents; individual goalkeeper controls
Interaction: Action-based game mode that allows players to control all the aspects of a match
How will you control the game? Additional players will be added soon.

What's new in Fifa 22:

- FIFA 22 introduces 'HyperMotion Technology,' which uses motion capture data from a player's full match in real-life to offer physics-based control in-game. The aim is to create smoother ball movement and an enhanced gameplay experience, but the results are far more than you would expect in a video game.
- The player's full match is captured using real-life motion capture technology and use this to create a more natural representation of players running around in different physical positions, tackle maneuvers, duels and more. Players participating in matches with motion capture suits will also receive a significant performance boost for their remaining game.
- New Dynamic Shadow Maps - Players can slide into tackles and deal more damage to opponents in situations where they cannot see the player who hit them, by adding depth to their shadow. They can also dictate on-ball situations by using one of the many skills new to the game. Think free kicks, chips, crosses and headers - all totally new to the game.
- New Coach Abilities - Provide your players with direct instruction and command on the pitch with all-new coach abilities. Dive in as the new assistant manager to give players the right advice on tactics, substitutions, formations and post-game communications, whilst also sending players into the thick of battle with real-time control. Direct play during the game matches previous levels of interaction and control you have seen on the pitch, allowing coaches to retain their on-pitch vision and performance.
- Video Assistant Referee (VAR)
