

Office cleaning

Today, more and more companies are abandoning full-time technical workers in favour of cleaning, when Office Cleaning is delegated to third-party structures. Cleaning is carried out by specialised organisations that clean professionally, using a variety of equipment, inventory and high-quality detergents. The benefits of cooperation with cleaning companies for many entrepreneurs are obvious.

Advantages:

Firstly, there is no need to control how well regular staff clean, whether the necessary equipment and detergents are purchased on time, etc.

Secondly, keeping a technician on staff is no cheaper than contracting with a cleaning service.

Thirdly, office cleaning by a third-party company is more convenient, as it relieves the headache of instructing staff, solving problems with personnel during vacations and sick days, and issuing PPE.

- Fourth, the tax burden is reduced through official cooperation with a cleaning company.

Another plus of cleaning is that the contractor is independently involved in the payment of salaries, vacation pay and sick leave to employees. And if one of the employees does not come to the shift due to illness or weekends, office cleaning is not interrupted, as the contractor immediately finds a replacement for the person who “dropped out” for a while. The heads of companies can only decide at what time the offices should be cleaned: in the morning or in the evening. Each of the options is used with the same frequency. And each cleaning time has its pros and cons, which we will now consider.

Benefits of morning office cleaning

The cleanliness of the office affects the status of the company as much as the quality of the services provided or the goods sold. Therefore, most leaders are especially scrupulous about putting things in order. In addition, clean rooms have a positive effect on the performance of employees and the mood of customers. Office cleaning in the morning is convenient because in the early hours there is usually no one else at work. In the evening some of the staff may linger in order to have time to do some work. And in some companies, the working day is not normalised at all, and employees can stay up late at work. Cleaners come to the office a few hours before the start of the working day and carry out a comprehensive cleaning. By the time the staff arrive, all premises will already be in order: the floors have been washed, the bathrooms have been disinfected, the rooms have been ventilated, and the surfaces have been wiped of dust. Professional cleaners at Akkurat-Service handle office cleaning quickly, but without compromising quality. They do not intersect with the client's employees and do not interfere with the work process, as they leave the office before the start of the working day.

When is evening office cleaning convenient?

Some of our company's clients prefer to have their offices cleaned in the evening. This is due to the fact that cleaners do not have strict time frames. They cannot only perform daily cleaning , but also, for example, do rotary cleaning of floors or dry cleaning of upholstered furniture . In the morning, it is impossible to remove stains from sofas or office chairs. As a result, the furniture does not have time to dry before the start of the working day. During some types of office cleaning, there are special detergents that have a distinctive smell and that are used during these types of cleaning. You can't apply them in the morning - it takes time for the smell to disappear. During evening cleaning, these products can be safely used, since by morning there will be no trace of the chemical "aroma" in the office. Whatever office cleaning you need - morning or evening - the cleaners of our company will perform it as accurately and quickly as possible. We take into account all the wishes of the client and adhere to the agreed schedule.
